Blanca Uribe Piano Program

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS NO. 01-2026

Piano Masterclasses 2026

The 32 Piano Sonatas

Composer: Ludwig van Beethoven

Blanca Uribe Colombian International Piano Competition³

The Conservatorio del Tolima is a public higher education university institution located in the city of Ibagué, department of Tolima (Colombia). Currently, the institution offers five (5) academic programs in music: four (4) undergraduate programs (Bachelor of Music Education, Bachelor of Music Performance, Associate Degree in Audio and Music Production, and Associate Degree in Construction and Repair of String Instruments) and one (1) postgraduate program: the Specialization in Music Education.

The Blanca Uribe Colombian International Piano Competition held its inaugural edition in 2024 and will host its second edition from October 8 to 15, 2027, in Ibagué, the Musical Capital of Colombia. This competition is an initiative of the Conservatorio del Tolima, the Faculty of Arts, Sciences, and Education, and the Bachelor of Music Performance program, as a tribute to Maestra Blanca Uribe, a Colombian pianist widely recognized for her international career in the academic and musical fields. The event was established with two fundamental purposes: first, to honor the artistic and pedagogical legacy of Maestra Blanca Uribe; and second, to promote excellence in piano performance according to international standards.

As part of the academic activities of the piano department, the Blanca Uribe Piano Program, dedicated to strengthening the Colombian piano school through high-level training processes, will offer the Pedagogical-Didactic Sessions: Piano Masterclasses 2026 between August and October of the current year. This program focuses on the complete cycle of the 32 Piano Sonatas by Ludwig van Beethoven (1770–1827). This initiative represents a valuable preparatory opportunity for the second edition of the Blanca Uribe Colombian International Piano Competition, to be held in 2027.

The call for applications is open to the Colombian piano community and foreign pianists residing in Colombia, who may participate actively in the program. Participation will be certified by the organizing institution, and also by the internationally renowned expert pianists who will be present at the Salón Alberto Castilla of the Conservatorio del Tolima.

³ Created by Agreement No. 12 of 2023 of the Honorable Board of Directors of the Conservatorio del Tolima.

Furthermore, the Blanca Uribe Piano Program reaffirms its status as an academic program for advanced piano training, developed through masterclasses taught by expert professors with recognized national and international careers within the field of classical music. These masterclasses constitute specialized pedagogical instances aimed at the technical, interpretative, and conceptual refinement of musicians in training, through direct work on repertoire, artistic performance, and specialized feedback. In this sense, the Program contributes significantly to the comprehensive training of musicians by promoting interpretative excellence in stylistic and formal terms, strengthening critical listening, and fostering the exchange of knowledge and piano traditions, thus establishing itself as a strategic component of internationalization in higher education processes.

Regarding the composer Ludwig van Beethoven (1770–1827), one of the most influential musicians in the history of the Western tradition, his work was key to the transition from Classicism to Romanticism. Considered the last great representative of Viennese Classicism, his legacy transformed the music of his time and opened new expressive and instrumental possibilities. Although his symphonies brought him worldwide acclaim, his piano works, specifically his 32 sonatas, constitute one of the most profound and visionary contributions to piano literature, setting the course for musical creation in the 19th century and for subsequent generations.

Now, the program proposes a pedagogical-didactic framework centered on Beethoven's 32 piano sonatas. These works represent a 27-year journey of artistic and instrumental evolution, profoundly influenced by the revolutionary spirit of his time. These sonatas are typically grouped into three major cycles. The first cycle (1795) reflects the heritage of Haydn and Mozart: sonatas conceived for the fortepiano or harpsichord, maintaining a classical language. In the second cycle (1800), the composer explores new sonorities and structures, as seen in the "Pastorale" or the "Moonlight" sonatas, anticipating features of his late period. Finally, the third cycle (1816) marks a turning point with monumental works such as the Hammerklavier (Op. 106) and the introspective Sonata Op. 111, in which Beethoven redefines the limits of the piano and achieves unprecedented technical and expressive depth.

The masterclasses will be led by musicologist Giovanni Bietti (Italy) and pianists John O'Connor (Ireland), David Allen Wehr (USA), Andrea Lucchesini (Italy), Michael Houstoun (New Zealand), Mariangela Vacatello (Italy), Julius Asal (Germany), and Blanca Uribe (Colombia). These are internationally renowned artists, several of whom have performed the complete cycle of Beethoven's 32 sonatas, ensuring a high-level specialized pedagogical approach. The sessions will take place at the facilities of the Conservatorio del Tolima in Ibagué (Tolima).

PROFESSORS BY CYCLE

In addition to the professors mentioned below, all three cycles will feature the participation of Maestra Blanca Uribe (Colombia).

Blanca Uribe

 Colombia Pianista

CICLOS I, II Y III

-  Third prize at the International Beethoven Piano Competition in Vienna (1961).
-  Held the George Sherman Dickinson Chair at Vassar College (NY).

Originally from Bogotá, Blanca Uribe moved to Medellín, where she grew up in a family of musicians. She began her studies with her maternal grandmother and continued under the tutelage of the Italian professor Luisa Manighetti. Later, she moved to Europe to study at the Vienna Academy of Music and Performing Arts, where she graduated magna cum laude under Richard Hauser. She pursued her postgraduate studies at The Juilliard School in New York with Rosina Lhevinne and Martin Canin.

She has performed on the world's most prestigious stages, including the Brahms Hall and the Golden Hall of the Musikverein in Vienna. As a soloist, she has performed with the symphony orchestras of Berlin, Prague, Vienna, and the National Symphony Orchestra in Washington D.C., as well as the leading symphonic ensembles of Colombia. Her chamber music career is highlighted by collaborations with the Philadelphia Chamber Ensemble, and national groups such as the Q-Arte Quartet and the Biava-Uribe Trio, among others.

Maestra Uribe has been a laureate of numerous international competitions, including: Finalist and Silver Medalist at the Geneva International Music Competition (Switzerland); Third Prize at the International Beethoven

Piano Competition in Vienna in 1961; and Third Prize (with a special mention for the best performance of a Romantic work) at the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition in Texas, among others.

In 1977 and 1986, she performed the complete cycle of Beethoven's piano sonatas in Bogotá and Medellín -an unprecedented feat in the Colombian musical landscape-. She repeated this cycle at Vassar College, New York, in 1999. Furthermore, she has performed the complete cycle of Beethoven's five Piano Concertos with both the Bogotá Philharmonic Orchestra and the Colombia National Symphony Orchestra. Her pedagogical legacy is extensive. From 1969 to 2005, she was a professor at Vassar College, where she was honored with the "George Sherman Dickinson Chair".

She has also taught at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester and New York University, extending her influence to conservatories in South Korea, Spain, Canada, and throughout Latin America. She has received prestigious decorations such as: the Order of San Carlos, conferred by the President of the Republic, Dr. Belisario Betancur; the Star of Antioquia (Silver and Gold); an Honorary Doctorate in Music from the Universidad del Valle. On March 27, 2022, she received the first "Luis Biava Musical Merit Distinction" granted by the National Symphony Orchestra of Colombia in recognition of her exceptional international career.

John O'Connor

 Ireland, Pianist

"A pianist of boundless sensitivity" — Gramophone

"Impeccable technique and extraordinary musicality" —
Sunday Times

John O'Connor is recognized as the heir to a piano tradition that privileges expressive depth over outer virtuosity (Chicago Tribune). The Washington Post praised him for "a touch so perfect it takes the audience's breath away".

Born in Dublin, he studied in his native city and in Vienna with Dieter Weber, also receiving guidance from Wilhelm Kempff. His unanimous First Prize at the International Beethoven Competition in Vienna (1973) marked the beginning of an international career spanning more than five decades.

He has performed as a soloist with orchestras such as the London Symphony, Royal Philharmonic, Czech Philharmonic, Vienna Symphony, Orchestre National de France, NHK Symphony, as well as with distinguished orchestras in the United States and Canada. He has performed in venues such as Carnegie Hall, Lincoln Center, Kennedy Center, Wigmore Hall, Vienna's Musikverein, Dvořák Hall, and the Bunka Kaikan in Tokyo. His chamber music activities include collaborations with quartets such as the Cleveland, Tokyo, Takács, and Vermeer.

His recordings for Telarc, including the complete Beethoven Sonatas and Bagatelles, have been widely celebrated, establishing him as one of the most respected interpreters of this repertoire. He has also recorded works by Mozart, Haydn, and John Field.

He is among the most influential pedagogues today. He is a professor at Shenandoah Conservatory, the Glenn Gould School in Toronto, and institutions in Ireland and Japan. O'Connor has received numerous distinctions from the governments and institutions of Austria, France, Japan, Ireland, and the United States.

Julius Asal

🇩🇪 Germany, Pianist

- 🎧 Exclusive artist for Deutsche Grammophon since 2023.
- 👤 Mentors: Sir Andrés Schiff and Eldar Nebolsin.
- ” Praised by Le Monde for his "captivating strangeness".

German pianist Julius Asal grew up as the eldest son of a family of musicians in the Taunus mountains, near Frankfurt. His first encounters with the piano occurred before he began to speak, and even as a child he improvised fluently and learned to play by ear. Only years later did he receive formal lessons, studying at the Hochschule für Musik "Hanns Eisler" in Berlin and the Kronberg Academy. Today, a laureate of numerous competitions, he is a regular guest at international festivals and prestigious venues such as Wigmore Hall in London, the Musikverein in Vienna, the Laeiszhalle in Hamburg, and Suntory Hall in Tokyo.

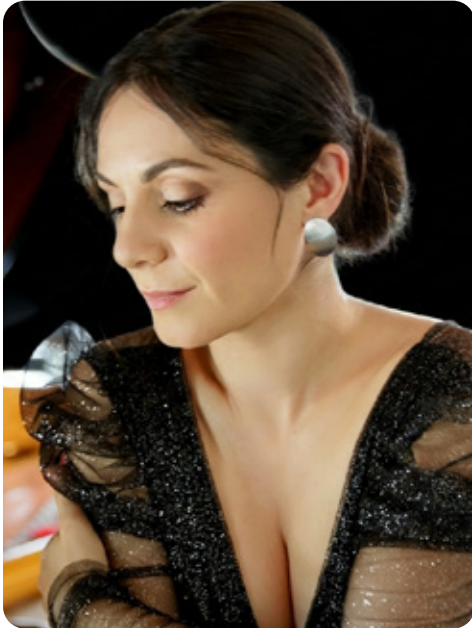

In recent years, his art has been significantly influenced by his mentors Eldar Nebolsin and Sir Andrés Schiff, also drawing inspiration from musicians such as Alfred Brendel, Gidon Kremer, and Menahem Pressler.

In the spring of 2022, his debut album featuring works by Prokofiev and his own arrangements of the ballet Romeo and Juliet was released to great acclaim by IBS Classical. In 2023, Asal signed an exclusive contract with Deutsche Grammophon. His debut album with the yellow label, Scriabin – Scarlatti, was released on May 3, 2024, presenting an innovative selection that includes Scriabin's Sonata No. 1 and sonatas by Domenico Scarlatti.

His talent for improvisation accompanies him to this day. In October 2023, he performed at a DG Yellow Lounge event combining classical pieces with improvisations. Following his debut in France, Le Monde praised the "captivating strangeness" of his performance and program selection in a review titled "The hidden and beautiful alliances of Julius Asal".
